TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Our carpentry and joinery business has been operating for more than fifteen years, relying predominantly in word of mouth referral for business.

The business is small and does not operate a showroom yet prospective customers often like to see samples of our work which means we have had to rely on providing an album of photos for review at our initial meeting.

I could see the value of the business having a website to make potential customers aware of the variety of work we perform as well as providing links to our very reliable suppliers but being IT illiterate I felt wary about the website development process.

Aaron De Friskbom had made the development of the website a very positive and stress free exercise. Aaron has truly taken care of developing a website which reflects our business values.

I have no hesitation in recommending Aaron to any person searching for an honest and obliging person with a keen eye for detail and willingness to please.

Yours faithfully

Peter Allen
